WHAT WILL POLICY OF IAUKEA BE?

SHERIFF ELEC WILL UNDOUBTEDLY MAKE CHANGES IN THE LOCAL POLICE FORCE.

On the surface there is nothing new in politics but underneath there is a great deal being done. The Democrats are awaiting the application for a recount in the interest of A. M. Brown the defeated Republican candidate for sheriff, before taking any similar steps in the interest of several defeated Democratic candidates. It is claimed by the Democratic leaders that D. Kakaokalani will in the event of a recount, win over W. O. Smith who was barely elected while E. Ingham will be able to get into the house over J. H. S. Kaleo.

But the real activity is in the pursuit of office and figuring what Iaukea is likely to do. There has been no declaration on the part of the sheriff-elect C. P. Iaukea regarding his plans. Naturally practically everyone at the police station expects to be fired out as soon as Iaukea takes office. There is a feeling of uncertainty about the police that is, to a certain extent, amusing. Undoubtedly pressure will be brought on Iaukea by Democrats to put out the bulk of the present force. It will be argued that by retaining them, he will merely keep men there who will subsequently cut his throat. In fact certain members of the police force are suspected of stabbing Brown although on the surface they represented that they were working in his interests. Iaukea is to be urged to dispense with such people whether they aided his election or not, as support of that character is unreliable and but waits the opportunity of committing treachery upon its latest benefactor.

Steps will undoubtedly be made to secure the dismissal of Captain R. W. Parker as the senior captain. It is claimed that that office is unnecessary and is a needless expense. Whether Parker will be retained in some other capacity in event of the abolition of the senior captaincy, remains to be seen.

While it is undoubtedly true that Iaukea will dismiss some of the force, he can not with one fell swoop, discharge everybody. The police force as an institution has to be conducted without any break. It would be folly to dispense with the entire force of experienced men immediately. Iaukea will go slow in this matter and whatever changes he makes he will make without undue precipitation.

But one of the most material considerations now is the question of the road supervisor. There is the biggest sort of a fight being waged over Sam Johnson. Democrats seem to regard Sam with keen apprehension, and well they may. He is regarded by the keenest political men of the Democrats, and incidentally they are few and far between as by far the shrewdest and best politician for precinct work in the Republican party. The Democrats are fearful that if he be left in control of the road department, he will be able to retain that as the nucleus of a machine for the Republican party in the next campaign. The Democrats want to secure this patronage and they are bending efforts to secure one of their own men in the position.

Dwight, Andrew Cox and Hustace are the three Republican members on the board of supervisors. Harvey and Fern are Democrats pledged to secure the dismissal of Johnson while Keoloha is a Home Ruler and Archer an independent Republican and they hold the balance of power. The strongest sort of pressure is being brought to bear on these two men in the interest of Sam Johnson. The indications are now that one or both of them will throw his support to Johnson and the doughty little politician will be retained at the head of the road department.

Democrats of the rank and file are beginning to prepare their applications for positions with the police force and the road departments. It seems probable that proportionately there will be more would-be policemen than would-be road men for a policeman's job is far less irksome.

Iaukea departed yesterday for a two weeks visit to Hawaii for his health. He will study the law during his absence. Upon his return he will have conferences with various Democrats and then decide upon his policy regarding the personnel of the new police administration.

COL. JONES IS BAND'S STRATEGIST

LOOKS LIKE HE HAD THE BOND GIVERS COMING AND GOING—RATHER AMUSING FEATURE.

There is one feature of the band matter, in regard to the demand on the indemnity bond, that savors of the humorous—that is humorous for all except the people who gave the bond. The band instruments are the property of the United States government and Col. Jones of the local national guard, is the custodian of those instruments and the man who is responsible to the government for them. He has secured himself through the indemnity bond.

Jones has the right to designate any body as a subcustodian of the instruments and he did so with the band boys. Without anticipating the present contingency Jones especially instructed and cautioned the boys not to part with the instruments. The result is that should the people who gave the $3,000 bond try to get the instruments back to Honolulu in order to save their bond, they will probably have to bring the band boys along with the instruments. In other words, each instrument will have an official appendix in the form of a husky band boy trailing after it.

What manner of legal operation for this case of official appendicitis the bond people can obtain, is uncertain. They might induce Col. Jones to agree to order the boys to relinquish the custody of the instruments so that the things could be brought home and the band boys left behind.

But would Col. Jones consent to such a thing? He declined to make any statement on this score this morning when interviewed but he was continually chuckling whenever anybody referred to the band boy appendices of the instruments. It begins to look as if the five men who put up that indemnity bond, had run against a veritable Shylock. They are probably up nights trying to locate some legal Porcia who will show them the way to comply with the terms of their agreement without losing a full $3,000 worth of financial blood.

At the present time the move by Jones is about the best piece of strategy that has yet developed. It would seem to come very near forcing the bond givers to defray the expenses of bringing the band boys home. The bond people would certainly seem to be in a position of getting whipsawed, coming and going.

COHEN'S PARTNERS ARE NOT LIABLE

THEY SIGNED AN AGREEMENT WHICH DOES NOT MAKE THEM LIABLE FOR LOSSES.

According to the agreement that the men who advanced money to Cohen made with him before he left, they are in no way liable to loss beyond the sum of their investment. They can none of them be sued for any loss which might occur. The agreement was made under the law which provides for "special partnerships" and cannot be broken down by any court.

The agreement was to the effect that the special partners with Cohen should give him $5000 and that they should share equally with him the profits, after they had received back their $5000. They were not in any case to be liable for more than the amount of their investments.

Under the agreement none of the men can be sued for payment of debts which Cohen may have made in connection with the tour of the band. Cohen and Cohen alone is responsible.

This however has nothing to do with the matter of the bond which Cohen gave with the local men as surety. Those men who are on the bond can be sued for that $3000.

WILDER TRUST DEED CANCELLED

JUDGE DE BOLT GRANTS PETITION THIS MORNING AND MISS WILDER CONTROLS PROPERTY.

The Wilder trust deed was dissolved this morning by Judge De Bolt and Miss Helen Wilder is now as free as a bird to handle her property which is worth at least $100,000 with an annual income of from $5,000 to $6,000.

The friendly suit between Miss Wilder and E. D. Tenney to dissolve the trust deed was tried this morning. There were not many witnesses. Tenney and the plaintiff giving the testimony. Miss Wilder was perfectly frank in her testimony as regards her motive for making the trust deed originally in 1897 and she was equally willing that Tenney should acquaint the court with the influence that led to the execution.

It appears that Miss Wilder was engaged to be married to Frank Unger of San Francisco. Her family questioned the unsuitableness of his love. In fact he was regarded as a sort of matrimonial adventurer who sought to marry in the hope of obtaining control of Miss Wilder's property which consisted of 800 paid up shares of the estate of the late S. G. Wilder. In order to protect herself from possible imposition in this regard, she executed the trust deed to Tenney.

Tenney testified to a conversation between Miss Wilder and Unger in which the latter said that when they were married she must allow him, Unger, to handle the property. Although Tenney did not so testify, Unger must have received a severe jolt on his bump of disappointment, wherever that is located, when he learned of the trust deed. The engagement was dissolved.

The court expressed the belief that the engagement on the part of the man had been due to mercenary motives and he dissolved the trust deed, as the conditions which seemed to warrant the original execution did not now exist.

LAVINIA PUTS BACK LEAKING

LITTLE ISLAND SCHOONER WAS ON DRY DOCK ONLY LAST WEEK BUT TAKES IN WATER.

The little island schooner Lavinia is back again in port after a brief voyage to nowhere. She sailed yesterday morning for Honolulu with some coal and general stuff and soon after leaving port it was discovered that she was leaking.

The leak could not be located and the impression of her captain, Sam Manna, was that she was leaking everywhere. There was no sense in endeavoring to pump the Pacific Ocean dry so the wise master decided to return to Honolulu and safety, it appearing that the nearest other land was at the bottom.

The Lavinia is the property of Captain Wolsbath, famous on the local water front as well as elsewhere. It was only last week that she was on the drydock for an overhauling, but she is getting on in years and it is supposed that age is largely responsible for her leaking propensities.

TOURISTS ARE COMING.

It is stated that seventy-five per cent of the tourists arriving here during the season spend on an average two nights and two days at Haleiwa and the other twenty-five per cent remain there from one to three weeks. This speaks well for the management and for the attractions of the place. One can go there for a week and return to town, not broke, financially, and improved in health and spirits. There is no place in the islands that does so much for the broken down constitution, no place where nature has been so liberal with her charms. St. Clair Biddgood, manager.

SPECIALTIES:—EXTRA SCENERY.

FINED FOR WIPE BEATING.

Albert Ah Leong was fined $5 and costs this morning by Judge Lindsay for assault and battery on Mrs. Ah Leong. The court warned the defendant against further physical demonstrations. The court took into consideration that the defendant had languished for three weeks in jail before the case came to trial, so upon his pleading guilty, let him off with only a light fine.

SENTENCE WAS POSTPONED.

Judge Lindsay postponed the sentencing of J. Manuel, a Porto Rican burglar, until tomorrow morning, today, owing to the fact that the defendant's attorney was occupied in the Federal court. Ah Chin, the convicted Chinese burglar, will be sentenced at the same time tomorrow.

The island schooner Charles L. Woodbury is to be laid up for repairs.
